Synopsis

What a tangled web we weave! Archer Reeves needs a fiancée, but where can he find one on short notice? When a woman calls him to tow her car, and her name happens to be Madison—the same name he gave his made-up fiancée—it has to be a sign, right? Madison Nichols has a soft spot for grandparents, so when Archer asks her to stand in for a day as his fiancée to please his dying grandmother, she agrees. In exchange, Archer will be her date for upcoming weddings and social events. Their simple deception becomes complicated as one lie leads to another. As they muddle their way through the mess, can truth be found in love? Calling Love is the second book of the bestselling Modern Conveniences series, in which modern conveniences bring couples together to fall in love through marriages of convenience. It can be read as a standalone.

Customer Reviews

When Madison's car went off the road, she had no choice but to call a tow truck. Archer arrived shortly afterward to pull her car out of the ditch, only to realize that it wasn't driveable. So, he dropped Madison off at her house on the way to his garage. But, could she trust this man she didn't know? Archer's grandmother has been in the hospital awhile & the only way he sees to making her feel better is telling her that he has a fiancée! Funny thing is Archer gave his "fake fiancée" the name Maddie! Is this God's way of making his lie become halfway true? This is a wonderful story of trusting a stranger & God to work out the details. I loved this book & am looking forward to the next in the series!

I always enjoy stories where love sneaks up on the couple! Madison was looking for a tow truck, not love. Archer just wanted to make his grandma smile. Both were caught off guard by the feelings for the other! Their secrets and lies bring about some fun situations!! This book is good for a laugh and a warm fuzzy feeling as two very deserving people find their happy beginnings

Calling Love is a well written Christian romance. The characters are true to life and you will find yourself cheering them on as the two main characters fake their engagement and then marriage. Will they find true love? I recommend you read the book and find out.

Sigh... Such a good story of how love can find you when you're not even looking, when you're even resisting the whole idea. A fake engagement, a paper marriage...who can resist this truly great story. Add it to your library today.

Madison Nichols has a friend Sean that they were best buds and hoped each other out when they needed a date for a special occasion. He just came from a trip and told her he met someone and he could not take her to a wedding birthday party she had to attend because he was going to be dating Lurena. She has an run off the road with her car when she avoided hitting a deer. She calls a tow truck and Archer Reeves comes to her rescue, he takes her home and the next day tells her the cost of repairs and tells her he has a proposition for her to help him with his dying grandmother. His grandmom wants to see him happy with a lady in his life so Archer wants Madison to be his fake fiancée. She agrees and ask him to be her boyfriend at her coming events. You will enjoy this book as much as I did in am sure. It is one of the sweetest stories I have read in a long time.

I read and reviewed the first book in this series (Love in a Fix) for Ms. Atwood and loved it. So I jumped at the chance when asked to read and review this one as well. Archer and Maddie pretend to be engaged (having met only once), for the sake of his dying grandmother. Before you know it, they end up marrying, in name only, as well. But will it always be so, or will they find a love to take them from convenience to commitment? Once again, I found myself rooting for these characters and praying for them to find their way through the hurdles of family and life in all its messiness. I was given a copy of this book in exchange for an honest review.

Archer Reeves asks Madison to be his pretend fiancée because her name happens to be the same as the made up name he gives his Grandmother. Madison agrees in exchange for him being her plus one for some events. This engagement turns into a hospital wedding to impress his Grandmother. This book is hilarious as they try to keep straight what they are supposed to do. I loved the ending and really enjoyed the storyline and the characters.

What a wonderful Christian Romance Read. I loved everything about this book. The characters were wonderful and I loved reading about their romance. The author did an amazing job on this book and I highly recommend this book to anyone. Looking forward to reading more. I received this book from the author for free in exchange for my honest review. Thank you.
